

The Michigan Model for Reassembly documents state: To facilitate the acquisition of truth, scripture is given to us and to all people, to instruct us in conduct which might either precipitate in bondage or freedom.

Covenant Acknowledgment of Creator

The combined covenants, our State Covenant and County Settlement Covenant, recognize the Almighty Creator as the ultimate source of authority, morality, freedom, and law. They emphasize accountability to God, the duties owed to both God and our neighbors, and the application of Divine Laws to guide life and governance. Rooted in gratitude for Divine Providence, the covenants highlight the Creator's role in granting liberty, guiding communities, and bestowing blessings. Both documents culminate in a formal ratification process, invoking the Creator's glory, supreme power, and guidance for the covenant's fulfillment.
